

Newport Mercury

VOLUME CXXXII—No. 36.

NEWPORT, R. I., FEBRUARY 15, 1890.

WHOLE NUMBER 6,848.

The Newport Mercury,

—PUBLISHED BY—
JOHN P. SANBORN,
182 THAMES STREET,
NEWPORT, R. I.

THE NEWPORT MERCURY was established in June, 1788, and is now in its one hundred and thirty-third year. It is the oldest newspaper in the United States, with less than half a dozen exceptions, the oldest printed in the English language. It is a large quarto weekly of fifty-six columns, filled with interesting reading—editorial, state, local and general news, well-selected advertising and valuable financial and household departments. Reading so many household articles and other States, the limited space given to advertising is very valuable to business men.

Terms: $3.00 per annum in advance. Single copies, 10 cents. A copy of the Mercury can always be obtained at the office of publication and at the various news stands in the city.

Advertisements are received at special rates given advertisers by addressing the publisher.

Local Matters.

Electrical Conference.

A conference relative to some important changes in the poles and wires of the Providence Telephone and Edison Electric Light Companies was held Tuesday afternoon in Chief Engineer Cozen's business office in the Gas Light Block. The first named company was represented by its president, ex-Governor Howard, Superintendent A. C. White, Superintendent of Construction Alex. McClellan, and Mr. Henry Bull, Jr., the local manager, and the Edison Company by Superintendent John Whipple, with ex-Lieut. Governor Honey as counsel, while Chief Engineer Cozen looked after the city's interests.

After a couple of hours' discussion an agreement was arrived at by which the two companies will work together, as far as possible, in concentrating their several wires on the same poles, the new poles, necessary, to be erected and owned jointly by them. This, it is believed, will greatly reduce the present number of poles about the city and concentrate many wires that now run in all directions over the house tops. The Providence Telephone Company propose to expend about $75,000 in changes and improvements to their Newport system.

Messrs. Titus & Buckley are making rapid progress on their new business block in Lynn and expect to have it ready for occupancy the latter part of next month. It is of brick, four stories in height, and when completed will be one of the handsomest blocks in that thriving city. Mr. L. W. Titus, of A. C. Titus & Co., of this city, who, with his brother A. C., forms the Titus branch of the Lynn firm, will, after the new block is ready, give his entire time to that business, removing his residence to Lynn.

General G. K. Warren Post has voted to attend the grand encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic which will be held in Boston next August, and a committee will be sent to the Hub in a few days to make arrangements for the accommodation of the Post. The grand encampment was held last year in Milwaukee. Fully 50,000 veterans are expected to be in line at the Boston meeting and it will certainly be the largest as well as the most important gathering ever held in New England.

Another of those winter Casino receptions, so much enjoyed by the army and navy officers stationed here and their families, was given at Masonic Hall Tuesday evening. Messrs. Louis Chase, E. Read Goodbridge and R. C. Derby were the committee of arrangements. Music was furnished by the Newport orchestra, and Mr. Goodbridge led the glee.

Young Allen, who shot and killed W. A. Sullivan last week Tuesday in a Long wharf saloon, was before the District Court yesterday and bound over to await the action of the grand jury of the Supreme Court in March. The court room was crowded with spectators.

The hearing on the water gas question was continued Thursday. Drs. Turner and Storrs, Profs. Gibbs and Munro spoke on the question, all condemning water gas that contained more than 10 per cent. of carbonate oxide. There will be another hearing February 21.

Commodore Reynolds has sold sixteen $100 shares in a score to be built for service in connection with the new steam tug Aquidneck, and Mr. James A. Eddy has taken the contract to construct such a vessel in sixty days.

Mrs. James T. Kaul was taken suddenly ill on the street Tuesday evening, since which time she has been confined to her home, although she is greatly improved.

On Monday evening next, February 17, the Royal Ten will give a grand dress ball at Masonic Temple. It is expected that this will be the first affair of the season.

Messrs. John H. Greene and John Howard, of the Arctic Ice Company, have been in Maine this week arranging for next season's ice supply.

Beneficial Society Organized in Newport.

A branch of the People's Five Year Benefit Order was very successfully organized in the Masonic Hall Monday evening, in the presence of nearly a hundred members. Imperial Supervisor J. H. Morgan, of Massachusetts, was present and entertained the large audience with a comprehensive statement of the merits of the order and its advantages over others of a similar character, after which committees were appointed to select and select a name and a list of officers for the local branch. The committee on the former reported the name of Coddington Commandery, which was unanimously adopted, and that on the latter nominated the following officers who were unanimously elected.

Commander—John J. Peckham.
Vice-Commander—John E. Mason.
Secretary—David Stevens.
Treasurer—Edward W. Higgin.
Deputy Secretary—Charles H. Fisher.
Marshal—Frank R. Scott.
Guard—George H. Spencer.
Sentinel—William J. O'Young.
Past Commander—H. S. Franklin.
Medical Examiners—Dr. Henry Brown, Dr. N. R. Chase.
Organist—C. E. Mason.
Feeling Agent—John Hazard.
Trustees—Robert C. Catlett, William A. Peckham, W. W. Sampson.

These officers are to be publicly installed next Monday evening, when the charter will be closed with a membership confidently expected to reach 150. Such a membership in so young a society, even in Newport which has become famous for the number and prosperity of its secret societies, is remarkable, and speaks well for its organizers, the most active of whom was Mr. Peckham who was unanimously made its first Commander.

Imperial Commander W. L. Barrell, and other officers of the Imperial Commandery will be present and take part in the installation exercises which will include readings and recitations by Prof. Fry, the elocutionist of Boston.

Last Week's Fair.

The six-days' fair, given under the auspices of Charles E. Lawton Post, U. S. A., for the benefit of the soldiers and sailors' monument fund, closed at Masonic Temple Saturday night. The attendance had been huge every night and the receipts, although the amount is not yet known, are thought to be all that could reasonably be expected, under all the circumstances. A gripe greatly interfered with the management. Col. A. K. McMahon, the general superintendent, and several members of the different committees, were unable to attend to the duties assigned them so that the organized management was considerably broken.

The returns from the sale of season tickets have not yet come in and cannot be got for several days yet so it has been decided not to have the drawing of the grand prizes before next Saturday evening, when it will take place in R. A. Hall.

A very pleasant incident of Saturday night's exercises was the appearance of Commander W. S. Tompkins of Gen. G. K. Warren Post, who, without any ceremony, quietly presented the fair committee with a check from his quartermaster for $125.

Artillery Notes.

The members of the Newport Artillery Company are wanted to appear at the Armory at 2 o'clock next Saturday afternoon, with overcoats, helmets, etc., for a street parade in observance of Washington's birthday.

The monthly business meeting of the company will be held on Tuesday evening, the 25th instant, and the following Thursday evening the company will attend the Sons of Veterans' fair at Masonic Temple. Each succeeding Tuesday evening is designated for drill.

The Newport Artillery Company will be represented at the Providence Light Infantry ball next Monday evening by Adjutant J. H. Wetherell.

Real Estate Sales.

Richard Mathews and others have sold the estate on the north side of Willow Court, adjoining lands of John Burkinshaw, deceased, and Thomas Power, to Samuel G. Mason for $1,275.

Barnard and Bridget Mooney have sold the estate on the east side of West Broadway, adjoining lands of John Campbell and the late W. D. Smith, to Daniel and Alice Pickett, for $1,100.

William G. Peckham of this city has purchased of the Providence Institution about five acres, on the top of Honeysman Hill, between Aquidneck avenue and a road recently laid out.

Of all the beneficial societies now in Newport, and we venture to say that there are more here than in any city of its size in New England, probably the organization of Coddington Commandery of the People's Five Years Benefit Order was the quickest work on record, considering the membership. This Commandery was organized last Monday with 100 qualified members and thirty-odd who had signed the roll but had not qualified, and two weeks before, the order had scarcely been heard of in Newport. In fact it was only a week before that the matter was placed in the hands of Mr. John J. Peckham, but then, "John is a hustler, you know."

Lincoln's Birthday.

Charles E. Lawton Post, G. A. R., gave an entertainment at its hall in Read's block Wednesday evening in commemoration of Lincoln's birthday. There was a large attendance and the exercises were of an exceedingly interesting character. Mr. Overton G. Langley, Commander of the Post, presided, the meeting to order with a few appropriate remarks, after which Comrade Patrick Henry, chairman of the committee of arrangements, took the chair. A prayer was then offered by Rev. M. Van Borne, pastor of the Union Congregational church, who also read the Martyr President's famous emancipation proclamation. Quartermaster Charles E. Harvey, who had been selected as orator of the evening, was next introduced, and he gave an able discourse upon the life and character of the great war president, from the humble beginning to the sad, yet heroic, end.

His Honor, Mayor Coggeshall, who also occupied a seat upon the platform, followed with brief remarks appropriate to the occasion, and the exercises closed with the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech by Chairman Henry.

The exercises were interspersed with music by a quartette composed of Messrs. A. A. Tilley, R. C. Tilley, N. T. Hodson and A. Holland, Mr. E. Y. Mason playing the accompaniment.

General A. G. Lawrence Camp, Sons of Veterans, observed the occasion with a similar entertainment at Caswell & Massey's Hall Tuesday evening. Lieutenant Brooks presided and read the emancipation proclamation. Chaplain E. O. Riggs read an original paper on Lincoln's early life, and remarks and readings were given by Messrs. Froeborne, Barry and Grandall of the camp. Past Colonel Charles H. West and Commander Langley, Junior Vice Commander Fowler, Adjutant Hudson and Comrades Delano, Simont and Smith of Charles E. Lawton Post, and several selections were delightfully rendered on the zither by Comrade Wiggens of the camp.

A Night of Pleasure.

Mr. Daniel Sully presented his comedy of "Conroy the Tailor" at the Opera House on the 7th instant and was accorded a welcome which showed the high appreciation of his former fellow citizens, for Mr. Sully is a Newport boy. The house was crowded and the applause constant and enthusiastic. At the close of the play Mr. Sully and his company were entertained at the Merchants Club by members of the Newport Lodge of Elks who are also members of the club. At this latter entertainment Capt. John Waters, Exalted Ruler of the Lodge of Elks and a warm personal friend of Mr. Sully, was presented by the actor, with an elegant silver water service bearing the following inscription:

Capt. John Waters
Daniel Sully
Feb. 7, 1890.

Mr. James C. Swan took an active part in the flag voting at the fair last week, but without especially favoring any one school, and when, after the flag had been awarded to the Lenthall, he saw how disappointed were the little workers for the Coddington he promised that they should have a flag and that it should be fully as good a one as the Lenthall would receive from the fair committee. In accordance with this promise Mr. Swan immediately ordered a handsome flag, which is now being made in New York, and upon its arrival here he will present it to the pupils of Coddington school on Mill street.

Today at 12 o'clock, President E. B. Andrews of Brown University will begin a course of six lectures at the State Normal school in Providence to which all teachers and others interested are invited, upon the subject of "The Constitutional History of the United States." The lectures will be continued at the same hour on subsequent Saturdays, omitting Washington's birthday.

The members of the Newport Light Infantry have been very successful in their efforts to get their armory provided with the needed appliances for gymnastic exercise, and it is thought this new feature will be the means of increasing the membership of the company.

Daniel Barnum was born in Newport Feb. 18, 1829, and next Tuesday he proposes to celebrate the 61st anniversary of this important event. Dan is in excellent health, his figure being as familiar upon our streets as day as ever, and he wishes the Mercury to state that he intends to live to be a hundred.

Mr. Wm. C. Foster, of Providence, will lecture before the Rogers High School Alumni, Monday evening, on "Some Lines of Reading and Study for Reading in General," it being one of the Alumni course.

Secret Society Notes.

Bellevue Lodge of the Order of Tontu, of this city, is in receipt of checks on the Keystone National Bank of Philadelphia, for four of its members, amounting to $245, making a total of $700 paid in sick benefits to its members since its organization fifteen months ago. Local Tontu suffers from much of the mental anguish endured by outsiders.

Coddington Commandery, of the People's Five Year Benefit Order, organized in the Masonic Building Hall last Monday night with ninety old members, is still growing and it is confidently expected that by next Monday night, when the officers are to be installed and the charter closed, the membership will have reached 150.

A branch of the Three Year Benefit Order is also about to be started in Newport, fully 50 citizens already having signed the membership roll. This order is on much the same principle as that of the Five Year, its greatest difference being that its benefits mature at death as well as at the expiration of the three years, and this is claimed by its friends to be a very important feature and one which should place it far in advance of all other beneficial orders. It pays $300 at death or at the end of the three years, and its sick benefits are $15 weekly.

A large number of the officers and members of perseverance Lodge, K. of L., attended the funeral of Mr. J. H. Gillingham yesterday afternoon as guests of Union Lodge, K. of L., of which latter society the deceased was a member. Berkeley Lodge, K. and L. of H., and Weant Shassett Tribe, I. O. of R. M., were also among the mourners.

Newport Council No. 65, Fraternal Circle, has just paid its first weekly sick benefit of $25. One has only to be sick to appreciate the advantages of a membership in a beneficial order of this character.

Death of John H. Gillingham.

Mr. John H. Gillingham, who has had the sympathy of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances during a long, suffering illness from cancer, died at his residence on Warner street Tuesday morning, and his funeral, attended by the various local societies to which he belonged, was solemnized from the Central Baptist church yesterday afternoon. Mr. Gillingham was a native of Bedford, England, and when a mere lad shipped upon a British man-of-war. Coming to this country, he entered the U. S. Navy, serving faithfully in the Rebellion, and subsequently settled on Block Island where he lived until he moved to Newport fifteen or twenty years ago. During his residence here he was employed most of the time by the city highway department, serving under Street Commissioner Peabody, Colt, Bentley and Lawton, and he possessed the confidence and respect of all with whom he came in contact.

The Mercury as an Advertising Medium.

Mr. Holloway, the photographer artist, writes: "I have been surprised to find that every person availing themselves of my 'Special Offer' (and there has been a large number already) have produced the 'ad' of the Mercury. This proves that your paper is a No. 1 as an advertising medium."

He also writes that he intends making a grand display of all the portraits, which will make an interesting collection at some later date.

Court Decisions.

The petition of Annie Snitzer vs. Max Snitzer, for divorce, heard at the recent term of the court of Common Pleas and held for advisement, has been denied and ordered dismissed.

The application for a receiver in the case against John Lyons, has also been denied.

Monday evening, while entertaining callers at her residence on Mill street, Mrs. W. P. Clarke felt a strong draught of air, and, going in search of the cause, was surprised to find the window of her sleeping apartment upstairs open. Subsequently it was found that her room had been robbed and it is supposed that an entrance had been gained from the piazza through the window found open. A small silver watch, a couple of watch chains, a lady's cloak and other wearing apparel are among the articles missed.

Messrs. George G. and Arthur H. Popple, the former salesman for his father, Mr. Geo. H. Popple, and the latter clerk in the National Bank of Rhode Island, are enjoying a two weeks' vacation, visiting New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

The boy choir of Trinity church, Bristol, gave a very pleasing musical entertainment in Masonic hall Monday evening for the benefit of the guild house fund of Trinity parish, in this city.

A. O. Taylor has leased for his own family, as a residence, for a term of years, from Mr. Winthrop, the "Winthrop Cottage" No. 26 Cornhill street, close to Pelham street.

Death of John B. Winslow, A New-Port Boy.

Mr. John B. Winslow for many years Superintendent of the Boston & Lowell Railroad and well-known in railroad circles, died at Boston on Monday morning, of heart disease. He had been unable to engage in active business for nearly fifteen years on account of ill health. Mr. Winslow was born in Newport, R. I., Feb. 11, 1815. He left home at the age of 17, with only the schooling he had obtained in the public schools of his native town, and went to Lowell, arriving Feb. 12, 1832. Two days later he was employed by the Locks and Canals Company, canals being largely used then for transportation, as steam railroads had not been introduced. In 1838 he entered the employ of the Lowell Railroad as a fireman and later became an engineer, continuing in that position until Oct. 1, 1848. Mr. Winslow connected himself with the Providence & Worcester Railroad Oct. 15, 1848, and served that company for eight years as Master Engineer and Superintendent. On Feb. 1, 1856, he returned to the Boston & Lowell Railroad, where he remained until June 1, 1874, when he was obliged to resign on account of ill health. He was one of the originators and the first Treasurer of the Eastern Railroad Association. Shortly before his death he resigned as a Trustee of Tufts College, which position he had held for many years, as he felt he was not able to perform his duties. Mr. Winslow was a very benevolent man, and in a quiet way gave away a good deal of money, and did much good. During the last years of his life he was a great reader, and his was a familiar figure at the Boston Athenaeum, of which institution he was a shareholder. His advice was often sought as a railroad expert and appraiser by railroad people.

The new army raised by the Earl of Strafford was disbanded. On Saturday, October 23d, (21 day dedicated to St. Ignatius) broke out the dreadful rebellion and general defection of the Irish, and most of the old English Papists, who by a general massacre attempted to exterminate the whole race of Protestants, and during the first three months destroyed 154,000 Protestants with cruelty; the design was not discovered until the night before.

Selected Tale.

IN MOSBY'S SETTLEMENT.

Her derivation for the day being over, Mrs. Rogers gave her hair a preliminary combing and fastened herself the bosom of her family with an unconscience. She then began to review her husband with choice and starchy bits of neighborhood news, which, in the isolation of the sheep camp, went unheard. Dick and Billy were seated on the doorstep admiring the artistic blending of colors on their Easter egg and slyly throwing pebbles at the maddie chickens, when they suddenly burst into a joyful chorus—

"Jack Lussen's team's coming!"

The grade, paw."

Mr. Rogers tilted his chair around and looked out through the window. Well, a smart girl of ten, left had sent me word you was a comin' day I'd a had on a different dress an' tried to git up a better dinner an' all that."

"Don't you worry none, Mis' Boggs, I'm gittin' dinner. I aint skeered we'll git enough to eat," remarked Lussen, gallantly.

"Well," sighed his hostess, "I do hope you go build a fire in the stove. We aint got much to eat, I'll git it what you like."

"Why didn't you let me run down?" began Billy, who he received snarl push and was told to get his skindolls, while his own paper, to tell Mrs. Lussen that her star "Sour dough" was "very good" and badly the broad word would be fit to be at All which the noble Mrs. L.

who seemed to devote his youthful istence to alternately tormenting chickens and harassing the road passers by, burst into the house to announce a party of horseback riders riding down the grade. The grade was the point on the road where travel were first discernible from the Bog-domielle, and was at least half a mi-away, thus affording a delightful in-view of uncertainty and guessing as who might be approaching.

"That there's Nant's pony on the side, and I reckon it's the Nan a-ridin," said M. Lussen, after a quick survey of the riders.

"Can't you put a poor starving man in the way of getting a bite of bread?" inquired a hungry tramp as he presented himself at the door where lived the humorist of the local paper.

"Why certainly, my poor man," said the kind-hearted wife of the humorist. "There is a cake of yeast that you are welcome to."

"But I can't eat yeast, my dear,"

"Not half perhaps, you can raise some bread with it," he said.

And the hungry man lifted his hat and retreated in the shadow of a smut that was so fitting.

It looks now as though the Democratic mayor of Woonsocket, as well as senator from that young town, would be the next Democratic candidate for governor.

The discussion of the rules still goes on. The Democrats seem to be doing most of the talking but then that is a privilege which they can enjoy as the Republicans will soon do the voting.

Col. William F. Nicholson, Jr., a member of Gov. David's staff, died at his home in Providence Monday after a brief illness. He was a graduate of Brown University and a most estimable young man.

Ex-President Cleveland says he is in favor of ballot reform. Gov. Hill says the same; still they both keep up a terrible hoping that they will not be compelled to go before the people of New York, under such a law.

The house of representatives on Wednesday very promptly passed the bill giving the Old Colony railroad power to build an elevated track on South Water street in Providence so as to run the trains on the Providence, Warren and Bristol road into the union depot, when this road is built it will afford a great convenience to travel from this section of the state.

Gen. Morgan was on Wednesday confirmed by the Senate as commissioner of Indian affairs. This is but a tardy act of justice. Gen. Morgan is emphatically the right man for the position. He carried into the office more intelligent management of the difficult duties committed to his charge than many of his predecessors. He is dealing with the Indian question in a practical as well as a Christian manner.

Here is economy for you. The salaries of the city officers of Brunswick, Maine's newest city, are quoted thus: Mayor's salary, $100; supervisor of schools, $200; superintendent of almshouse, $200; city marshal, $50; street commissioner, $100; treasurer, $50; city solicitor, $50; chief engineer of the fire department, $25; janitor of engine house, $65; health officers, $15 each; firemen $5 each.

The above is respectfully referred to the chief of our fire department for consideration.

Outside of political offenses the proposed Extradition Treaty with England is very far reaching. It is a good feature and a helpful advance in the mutual helpfulness of nations. There is not one good reason why a criminal of any degree should secure immunity by escaping from one civilized State to another. It is merely a survival of ancient ideas, when unity was the normal relation of States, and an offender in one was welcomed as an ally in another. We are outgrowing such notions.

The annual session of the general association of the Northern Mutual Relief was held in Boston Wednesday. There were representatives present from Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The session was very largely attended, and the business transacted in a very harmonious manner. This organization is in a very healthy and flourishing condition. Hon. Robert S. Franklin, of Newport, was re-elected the General President without opposition. The next annual session will be held in the city of Lawrence.

The General Assembly seems to be inclined to do but little besides device schemes to spend the people's money. The Senate has appointed a committee to report on a new State House for Providence, and given them $2500 to spend on plans. An appropriation of $50,000 is asked for the Agricultural School at Kingston; another $50,000 is wanted for the asylum at Cranston; $30,000 is asked for new uniforms for the militia. Numberless offices are being created for somebody to fill at a high salary, as for instance an insurance commissioner with a salary of $3000, etc. If this thing goes on it will be necessary to add another half to the state tax. The tax in a very few years has been increased from 12 cents to 18 on $100. If all the schemes now on foot become a law, and there is too much reason to fear that they will, twenty-four cents would not be enough to meet the demand. It is time to call a halt.

The efforts of the clergy of the city to put a stop to the Sunday excursion business is a movement in the right direction. The Mercury approves of it and will render it any aid possible. But they should strike at the root of the evil and stop all trains and boats coming to Newport on Sunday, and they should see to it that all unnecessary business of all kinds is stopped. It will be of no use to direct their fight against the street railroad alone or against any one object. They must strike at the seat of the evil and then continue the fight all along the line. As long as steamboats and trains are allowed to bring people to Newport on Sunday, just so long will the omnibuses, hacks and street cars carry them to the beach and to other places where they may wish to go. In fact it is better for the Sunday-excursioning people to have the crowd carried off of the compact part of the city as speedily as possible. We do not believe that many of the better class of people wish that crowd here on Sunday, and if the movement now on foot shall succeed in stopping it, the clergyman of the city will have done a great deal of good. There are plenty of other places that they can visit if they must make a Sunday excursion, without being turned loose upon Newport in countless hordes.

The question of a small salary for the members of the City Council is agitating the minds of some of the people of Newport. The Mayor in his inaugural address recommended that the members of that body should be paid; the Council following out his recommendation voted to ask the General Assembly to amend the charter of the city as to allow the very modest sum of $200 and $100 per annum for the aldermen and councilmen respectively. We approved of the measure when recommended by the Mayor and we approve of it now. There is no rhyme or reason in taking the time of a man and requiring him to do all the labor that is required of a member of the City Government without giving him some compensation for his time and labor. It is no argument whatever to say that plenty of men can be found to take their places; so you might find plenty of men who would be willing to be President of the United States, and yet we pay that official $7000 a year. There was a vacancy in the office of executive officer of the Board of Health a few days since and there were over thirty applicants for the position, still that was not used as a reason why the one chosen should work for nothing.

In this matter of salary for the City Council, we believe that Newport is the only town or city in the State that does not pay for the labor of the town or city officers. Even in the country towns the members of the town council are paid either by the day or so much for the year. The city of Providence pays its aldermen $500 each and the councilmen $300. There is, therefore, every precedent as well as every reason why the members of the Newport city government should be paid the very small pittance asked for.

It is not expected, as we understand it, that the salary, if voted, is to be available for the present City Council. It is only for the benefit of their successors, and it would seem that such a measure need meet with no opposition among fair minded men.

Alderman Powers of Chicago wants each public school in that city to be provided with a matron, and has introduced an ordinance to that effect. The duty of this matron will be to keep an eye on the scholars and see that their clothing, shoes and stockings are not wet when they enter upon their school duties. When the influenza epidemic was at its height a large number of school children were stricken with the disease, and after studying the matter Alderman Powers came to the conclusion that the wet weather had much to do with it. He also realizes the fact that children are careless in the matter of wet feet and damp clothing; hence his desire for the appointment of school matrons. The idea is by no means a bad one.

When the District Court bill was passed by the General Assembly there was a great howl raised by the Providence Journal and other papers and people over the enormous expense the system would be to the state. Under the old trial justice system no body ever knew how much was drawn from the state treasury for their support, but it was a well established fact that the expenditure was many thousand dollars more than the receipts. Under the new system last year, according to the state auditor, the state paid out $16,064.00 for these courts and received for them $16,060.03. Not a very extravagant outlay.

Dr. Garvin seems to be alone in his own party. He introduced a resolution of final adjournment of the General Assembly for March 25th, but in the Democratic caucus held Thursday morning every member voted against the Doctor. Another of the irrepressible Doctor's resolutions was the abolition of the denominational tests in electing the officers of Brown University. Against this measure the Democratic senator from Providence made a strong plea and again the Doctor was sat down on. His next move will probably be something else.

The New Hampshire state commissioner of agriculture and immigration has issued an interesting pamphlet of 100 pages, entitled "Scene a Home in New Hampshire." The larger portion of the book is devoted to a concise description of "abandoned" farms in the State, prepared by many facts in relation to the general growth and prosperity of New Hampshire.

We have heard nothing about Long Wharf of late. It is not about time that another growth was sent up from that neglected quarter. It is certain that the street grows no better very fast.

The new state house commission has been increased to eight by the senate, three from Providence county and one from each of the other counties with the Governor added, thus giving Providence one half the entire commission.

The manufacturers and personal friends of ex-Speaker Randall in Philadelphia have contributed a fund of $20,000 for his family. The money has been invested and the interest is to be used only.

They are harvesting immense quantities of ice in Maine. There is no danger of an ice famine this year, although the consumers may have to pay a lively price for their cooling substance.

School Committee Meeting.
The regular monthly meeting of the School Board was held Monday afternoon, Chairman Cozens presiding. On motion of Mr. Sheffield, the resignation of Mr. F. W. Tilton, as headmaster of Rogers High School, was accepted, and sub-master F. E. Thompson was unanimously elected to the vacancy. Mr. Tilton to take charge of his present class during the remainder of the school year at the rate of $200 per annum. It was announced that Miss Elizabeth H. Swinburne and Col. A. C. Landers had offered to present flags to the Rogers High School and the Calvert School, respectively, and the generous offers were accepted and the matter of providing poles for the same was referred to the committee on buildings with power to act.

The reports of the superintendent, the trustee officer and of the several standing committees were read and received, and the following standing sub-committees were announced by the chair for the ensuing year:

Death of the Captain General of Cuba.

HAVANA, Feb. 7, 1890.
Don Manuel Salamaque y Negrete, Captain General of the island of Cuba, who arrived at Havana, March 13th, 1889, expired at the Government Palace, Plaza de Armas, last evening at five o'clock. He had been ill for some weeks. The Captain General's health had given cause for much anxiety among the people, but none realized that his death was so near.
In the death of this soldier and patriot, Spain and Cuba have lost one of their most brilliant sons. He came to Cuba in the hope of being able to advance the best interests of this colony of his mother country, and during his presence here has been nothing in his efforts to do so. Notwithstanding the delicate state of health with which he landed, he has given his personal attention to the most important questions of the island, investigating for himself the condition of affairs in the interior of the island, encouraging personally the languid state of our greatest agricultural enterprise, the making of sugar, inviting colonists to come here and make a home where nature does so much for the industry of the farmer. He was a man of high talent, thorough soldier, and civilian, accessible to all persons without ceremony or etiquette. With no need of abandoning his luxurious home in Spain, and his hosts of friends here, he accepted the appointment of Captain General of Cuba with the honest intention of doing all in his power to ameliorate its condition, and has given his life for this one object. Without doubt his sickness and death are the result of his untiring energy and devotion to the welfare of Cuba, and his memory will ever be held sacred in the hearts of all her loyal people.

The Cherokees want the government to pay them six dollars an acre for their strip. Private bidders are said to have offered them $125. Government usually pays an extra price for everything; but this is rather crowding things. Perhaps the fairest way of disposing of these six million acres would be to let the Cherokees dispose of the tract in small holdings to actual settlers for what they can get, with a limit of time for final disposition, and the right of the government to take any unsold remainder at a figure not above the government minimum price—the whole operation to be carried out under government supervision. That would open the country to settlement, keep out the cattle kings and monopolists, and give the Indian the benefit of natural competition.

The Atchison Globe man advises his readers to fix this winter in their memory. "You may be an old settler some day and have occasion to tell about it," he remarks.

There is thought to be a deposit of coal under the city of London. It will be curious if the Londoner of the future can obtain his supply of "seacool" by digging a deep hole in his back yard.

Our Democratic friends in the General Assembly have been considerably agitated over the Champlin case from Block Island. They do not seem to know what to do with the elephant on their hands.

The Massachusetts legislature is discussing the proposition to pay the governor of that State $100,000 per annum. The act will probably pass.

The city of Florence, Italy, is going to have a "love jubilee" next May, in celebration of the sixth centenary of the loves of Dante and Beatrice.

The memorial asking the repeal of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution has been favorably reported to the Mississippi House.

WASHINGTON MATTERS.
The President's Engagement to be Given Upon Account of Secretary Tracy's Mission to the States—NEW BUILDINGS TO BE CALLED FOR BY SECRETARY TRACY AT HIS DAY AGAIN—SENATOR ALLISON HAS NO FEARS ABOUT HIS RE-ELECTION—Various Matters of Interest.
(From our regular correspondents.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10, 1890.
The President was under engagement to go to Pittsburg next Thursday to give a free public ride, but the awful catastrophe by which Secretary Tracy's wife and daughter lost their lives has upset everything and it is now extremely doubtful whether he will go. Official society may be considered as in mourning, and there will be no more entertainments this season.

The code of rules has been reported to the House, the majority and minority reports presented, and today they were called up in the House and the debate upon them opened. Nothing else will be taken up until they have been disposed of, and it is likely to be the greater portion of this week, as the Democrats propose making a large number of set speeches against them. The majority report from the committee on Rules should be read by everybody, and only lack of space prevents its reproduction in full. To summarize it by quotation is not to be thought of.

Senator Morrill, chairman of the Senate committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, is hastening himself to secure the legislation to have several very necessary public buildings erected here, which will save the government a tidy sum of money now annually paid out in rents. Among the buildings contemplated are an addition to or a duplication of the White House; ditto Post-office and Interior department buildings; and a new Government printing office, which is urgently needed in place of the present overcrowded and unhealthy, to say nothing of dangerous building. It is crowded and out of plumb walls are a constant source of fear to the 2000 or more employees who daily risk their lives in it, and it is a shame that such a building should be allowed to stand.

Secretary Tracy went to his office at the Navy department this morning for the first time since the terrible fire. He has aged 20 years in a week. Yesterday was the first time he had seen his surviving daughter and granddaughter since the fire. The President and Mrs. Harrison accompanied Secretary Tracy from the White House to the residence of Andrew Bannard Davis, where the meeting took place.

The committee investigating the Ohio ballot box fingerings expect to finish the hearings this week. It had a very distinguished array of witnesses last week, including Gov. Campbell, Muskat Hatfield and Representatives Bitterworth and McKinley, and the testimony, while containing little, if anything, that was entirely new, was at times quite interesting.

A clause in the new code of Rules for the House makes pension bills privileged to come up at any time. It is said that a very determined effort is to be made to have that clause stricken out, but as it was put in by a vote of the republicans it is extremely likely to stay there.

Members of the House have long worried over the fact that the Senators were each provided with a clerk to help them in their correspondence. The result is a bill which has been favorably reported to the House providing a clerk for each representative.

In the Senate this week the Blair editorial bill and the Oklahoma Territory bill will probably occupy considerable time. The Oklahoma bill is being presented by Secretary Noble, who says the present condition of affairs in that territory is exceedingly dangerous.

The President's proclamation opening the Sioux reservation to settlement was issued Monday. This adds a large territory to the public domain.

There is a rumor here that Senator Gorman is to be chairman of the democratic congressional campaign committee. It is true this means a red hot fight for the possession of the House, and it behooves the republicans to be on the alert.

Senator Allison is not worrying over the news from Iowa. He says things will work around all right after a while. The national shipping league, which was in convention here last week, passed a resolution endorsing the Fairplay bill for subsidizing American ships on the ground that it would put our merchant marine on an equal footing with that of other nations.

Messages of condolence to Secretaries Blair and Tracy are still pouring in, and only from all sections of this country, but from all over the world.

With the new Rules adopted the House will have no difficulty in going ahead with public business.

The West Shore, the bright weekly (not weekly) magazine published at Portland, Oregon, is responsible for the following: If the influenza tackles all the Dukes and Counts living on the Pacific coast, some of our hotels and restaurants will have to look out for new help.

A few days ago the czar was frightened into a fit of sickness by the sudden extinction of the electric lights in his palace. This is said. He ought to change places with Kemmerer, the condemned New York man, who sincerely hopes there will never be another current of electricity set in motion. Even electricity fails to please everyone.

The State Board of Agriculture will meet in Providence on Monday afternoon, to consider their annual report to the General Assembly. Hon. Rowland Hazard, representing the Washington County Agricultural Society, has resigned his position on the board and the vacancy has been filled by the election of Hon. John G. Clarke, the present efficient Secretary of the Washington Co. Society.
